The following items are applicable to this amendment:AMENDMENT CONTINUATION

C. CONTRACT DRAWINGS: There are no drawing revisions issued with this amendment.

D. THE FOLLOWING QUESTION RECEIVED UNDER SUBJECT SOLICITATION IS ANSWERED BELOW:

Question: A review of the strength analyses furnished by the Corps has raised a question regarding the test data supplied. Reference Appendix B, Laboratory Data, Strength Analysis Section, General Test Reports dated 22 February 1983 (Work Order No. 3471 & 3505), 22 February 1983 (Work Order No. 3505), and 19 July 1984 (Work Order No. 3770). In these separate reports, compressive strengths of samples identified as the same sample were reported at varying strengths. Reported compressive strengths varied as much as 300%. Because of the significant variance of test results for the same sample, which significantly impacts the analysis of dredge production, we request a explanation of the reason for the variance.

Answer: The different test results reflect separate core samples collected from the same specimen. The results for one set of specimen cores were reported in the earlier report, while the results of the second set of specimen cores were reported in the later report. Photographs showing some of the multiple-core samples are provided in the "Petrographic Analyses" portion of Appendix B.

In accordance with Paragraphs 5.3.1 and 5.3.3 of the plans and specifications, Character of Materials, variations in rock characteristics beyond each boring location are to be expected. The differences in the strengths of these specimens over such short distances are often due to differences in core orientation and preparation, voids, partings, depth within the rock sequence, moisture content, and similar in situ characteristics of the rock.

Unlisted classifications needed for work not included within the scope of the classifications listed may be added after award only as provided in the labor standards contract clauses (29 CFR 5.5(a)(1)(ii)).

In the listing above, the "SU" designation means that rates listed under that identifier do not reflect collectively bargained wage and fringe benefit rates. Other designations indicate unions whose rates have been determined to be prevailing.

WAGE DETERMINATION APPEALS PROCESS

1.) Has there been an initial decision in the matter? This can be:

- * an existing published wage determination
- * a survey underlying a wage determination
- * a Wage and Hour Division letter setting forth a position on a wage determination matter
- * a conformance (additional classification and rate) ruling

On survey related matters, initial contact, including requests for summaries of surveys, should be with the Wage and Hour Regional Office for the area in which the survey was conducted because those Regional Offices have responsibility for the Davis-Bacon survey program. If the response from this initial contact is not satisfactory, then the process described in 2.) and 3.) should be followed.

With regard to any other matter not yet ripe for the formal process described here, initial contact should be with the Branch of Construction Wage Determinations. Write to:

Branch of Construction Wage Determinations
Wage and Hour Division
U. S. Department of Labor
200 Constitution Avenue, N. W.
Washington, D. C. 20210

2.) If the answer to the question in 1.) is yes, then an interested party (those affected by the action) can request review and reconsideration from the Wage and Hour Administrator (See 29 CFR Part 1.8 and 29 CFR Part 7). Write to:

Wage and Hour Administrator
U.S. Department of Labor
200 Constitution Avenue, N. W.
Washington, D. C. 20210

The request should be accompanied by a full statement of the interested party's position and by any information (wage payment data, project description, area practice material, etc.) that the requestor considers relevant to the issue.

3.) If the decision of the Administrator is not favorable, an interested party may appeal directly to the Administrative Review Board (formerly the Wage Appeals Board). Write to:

Administrative Review Board
U. S. Department of Labor
200 Constitution Avenue, N. W.
Washington, D. C. 20210

4.) All decisions by the Administrative Review Board are final.
